Learn to co-exist with wildlife at Discover Dogs event

The Association for the Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals will discuss co-existence methods with residents

VANCOUVER – Mingle with animal lovers, get some treats for your pooch and learn how to co-exist with wildlife at Discover Dogs' Co-existing With Wildlife Mingler on May 8 from 7 to 9 pm.

Discover Dogs (27-701 Kingsway, Vancouver) is hosting the event, which supports The Association for the Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals (APFA) in their educational efforts to promote wildlife co-existence, protect animals from the fur trade and end the cruel use of traps in Canada.

“British Columbians clearly love their wildlife – but they don’t always know what to do when that wildlife is in their own communities,” says Lesley Fox, Executive Director at APFA. “Our co-existence programs help people prevent conflict with animals such as coyotes, foxes, skunks and raccoons, while teaching them how to enjoy wildlife and co-exist peacefully.”

Light refreshments will be offered at the admission-by-donation event, along with fun workshops and great prizes at the door, in a 50/50 draw and for auction.

“This is a casual, informative night that will be a great introduction for anyone with an interest in wildlife or who has read media accounts of conflict and aren’t sure what to think,” Fox adds. “We’ll be having a lot of fun meeting new people and talking about what we love: protecting wildlife.”
