Program information and terms

- Applicants will be contacted via email by The Fur-Bearers Scholarship Evaluation Committee to advise of the decision. By submitting your application, you agree to allow The Fur-Bearers to post your name, province or territory, and a brief description of the project on The Fur-Bearer's website, social media channels, newsletters, news releases, and other print and online communications if you are selected for the scholarship.
- The Fur-Bearers will contact recipients periodically to receive status updates about the projects. Projects are expected to be completed within one year of receiving the scholarship. Once the project is completed, The Fur-Bearers will connect with the recipient to provide a brief summary of the experience and a project photo. This summary will be featured on The Fur-Bearers' website, social media channels, newsletters, news releases, and other print and online communications). Recognition of The Fur-Bearers' support for your project is appreciated, though not required. To use The Fur-Bearers' logo, please contact us.
- Projects and their development must be carried out in accordance with all applicable laws; recipients must ensure that their projects do not negatively impact animals in any way, including (but not limited to) collaring, tagging, or capturing animals.

By submitting this application, you agree to the terms indicated above.
